Youth Beat

—By Robert MacLeod
Editor, "Teen Magazine"

Guru Not So New-r: Hippies still hopping all over the place to embrace transcendental meditation, spiritual quietude and inner peace! Hindu philosophy has attracted close to two million disciples in the western world in the past 70 years. . . . Swamis and gurus have been on the upbeat in U.S. since 1890.

Self-Realization Fellowship has been deeply rooted in Southern California since 1925. . . . attracted great crowds and great names for several years before it fuzzed out leaving behind a hard core in a gift-domed compound in Pacific Palisades and "International Headquarters" in Pasadena. Like the Muslims, S.R.F. disciples renounce their family names. They don't, however, renounce the world. Some "experts" claim the art of "meditation" can be learned in three half-hour sessions.

After the individual instruction a student is expected to devote 15 minutes morning and evening to solitary meditation. Maharishi followers contend he has "rediscovered," after hundreds of years of neglect, the true way to enjoy 200 per cent life: 100 per cent material and 100 per cent spiritual. (Interesting arithmetic!) Competitive swamis accuse the Maharishi of religious hypocrisy and a misuse of yoga. Some self-styled "Beautiful People"—such as Ringo and Mrs. Ringo plus Mia Farrow—seemed to agree.

For certain, they bailed out of the Maharishi's Himalayan retreat after a few days and dollars worth of solitary confusion.

HIPPIES PREDICT THEIR OWN DOOM: More and more leaders of hippie-type cults are moaning that the end is in sight. Underground newspapers are backing away from hard-core support of drugs in many cities. Ravi Shankar, India's master of sitar and hippie hero, predicts both the twilight of hippiedom and of the drug-taking movement. Says, "The Yanks like to do things on a big scale. Drugs should have nothing to do with music."

TEEN ILLEGITIMACY RATE: Public Health Service releases new survey showing illegitimate children less common among teen-agers than among women of any age under 35. Study covered period between 1940-1965. In 1965 estimated 291,200 illegitimate births in U.S. Rate of increase for women over 25 increased more rapidly than for younger women.

Super-Cool Movement: Groups of teens now forming to spoof the hippie types. The reason: newly found hypocrisy in their own peer group. They reason that rebellion against adults and parents had a "hypocritical" foundation. Now the same sham is evident among contemporaries. Gives credence to theory that for every action there's a reaction! The micro-hoppers are now laughing at both sides of the yag-gap. Satire. It's beautiful. It's to be hoped that principals and parents will look beyond the super-ornamented surfaces of the Super Cools!

TEEN-AGE EDITORS WANT OUT OF VIETNAM: UPI poll shows 75 per cent of high school editors favor withdrawal. The new survey involved only 50. On a recent poll of students (27,000) came up with 24 per cent favoring withdrawal.

Yesterday's column showed how British expert Albert Rose made a six club contract (that at first seemed to depend on his winning one of two finesses) by working out a play to discard three hearts on dummy's long diamond suit.

The essence of the Rose play was that he gave himself an extra chance this way since apparently he reserved the timing to finesse later, in case diamonds broke 5-2.

Today we find South in the same contract with the identical cards in his hand and dummy and the same opening lead, but we have given East five diamonds and the king of hearts so that South can't get three heart discards and will have to try the heart finesse to make his contract.

The play starts with dummy's king of spades and ace-king of diamonds taking the first three tricks. A third diamond is led and trumped with the nine of clubs. If West overruffs, South will make his contract because he will wind up taking a successful heart finesse, but suppose that West just discards a heart.

South will be sure that the club finesse will win. He will go to dummy with the ace of spades and lead the jack for a finesse. If West produces his queen at this point, South will be able to get back to dummy with the 10 of clubs; but suppose West is smart enough to play a low club. Won't South be sure that East holds the club queen and won't South lead the 10 of clubs and finesse again to guard against an initial club holding by East of four to the queen?

If he does, West will finally produce his queen and lead back a black card. There will

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Are We Approaching Dental Shangri-La?

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Two recent discoveries may bring a new era to dentistry—REAL prevention of tooth decay.

Dentists now practice prevention in the sense that they prevent premature loss of teeth by treating tooth and gum disease. But these discoveries are important because they come closer to solving the basic problem—prevention of disease itself.

These two decay preventatives, one for children and one for adults, have been reported by a research team of dental scientists at Indiana University.

The children's preventative is a new fluoride solution called stannous hexafluorozirconate. It's significantly more effective than stannous fluoride (SnF2) now being used by dentists. And like SnF2 it's be no entry to dummy and South won't be able to take the heart finesse.

Golf's New Faces Wear Smiles and Frowns

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sports fans who have only a casual interest in golf are familiar with names like Palmer, Nicklaus, Player and Casper. They make the headlines, usually head the list of scorers in major tournaments and lead the list of pro tour money-winners.

Scanning down beyond those names, sometimes very far down to beyond the cut-off

Bobby Cole

list, one will find names like Bob Smith, Ron Cerrudo, Jim Grant, Bob Murphy, Marty Fleckman, Lee Elder. They are some of the bright young pros slashing through high grass and anonymity to reach the top.

Before a pro can join the circuit, he must qualify as one of the select few in a field of hundreds at the Professional Golf Association school in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., held twice a year, in spring and fall. With the Approved Tournament Player's card in his pocket, he can begin to hack the tour. And for beginners, that's exactly what most do—hack through.

The most startling example of the tribulations of fresh-faced swingers was the tall class of 1965. Five months after 17 of the star graduates had joined the tour, not one had earned a cent.

That, of course, was an exception. Other newcomers have done well in their first year.

Lee Trevino for one. Last year he won over $26,000 and was named "Rookie of the Year." But Trevino too is an exception.

Most young pros hope it won't take more than five years before they become consistent money winners.

What are the problems for a pro tyro? Inexperience, of course. He is not familiar with the tour courses and needs time to learn the greens. The pressure of playing against the best and the strain of travel and living out of a suitcase is a great adjustment after leisurely amateur play. And, because they usually have not won previous pro tournaments, they are given early starting times.

"A starting time of 8 in the morning is damn tough," said one young pro. "You have to get up at 5:30, then practice in the dew and chill of the morning. You hardly have the crumbs out of your eyes and you are supposed to be ready for tournament play."

Bob Smith, Bob Murphy and Deane Beman, each of whom turned pro last year, are currently among the leaders of the new crop.

Smith, 25, has one of the most solid games on the tour. He can drive, chip and putt with equal facility. His best pro tournaments were the Williams and Crosby, finishing ninth in each. So far this year he has won about $7,000.

A chunky, cigar-chewing redhead who often whistles while strolling down the fairway is another potential star. Bob Murphy, 25, was the U.S. Amateur champion in 1965 and NCAA winner in 1966. He is already acknowledged as one of the best putters on the tour. That skill has helped him over $9,000 so far this year.

An elder statesman of the new breed is 30-year-old Deane Beman. He surprised the golf world by turning pro last year, after one of the greatest amateur careers in history. He was a U.S. and British Amateur champion and member of the America's Cup, Walker Cup and World Cup teams. Starting late in 1967, he managed to win $18,000, and highlighted the year with a third-place finish in the Hawaiian Open.

Two of the rising stars on the pro golf tour are nearly 10 years apart in age. Britain's Tony Jacklin, 23, recently won the $100,000 Jacksonville Open. Lee Elder, one of five Negroes on the tour, is beginning his second pro year, at age 32.

Jacklin has been a pro six years, but did not earn his U.S. Approved Tournament Player's card until 1967. The Jacksonville win assured him a place among the year's top money winners. But he came into prominence last season when he placed 16th in the Masters.

Elder earned $7,000 last year, a relatively good showing for a first-year man. This season he seems certain to double that figure. In his first 11 1968 tournaments, Elder has been in the money on nine occasions.

Possibly the biggest name among the new pros is Marty Fleckman, 24-year-old Texan. A powerful driver, Fleckman burst into banner headlines as an amateur last June when he led the U.S. Open field at Baltusrol the first and third days. He faltered to a tie for 18th place on the fourth and final day, but his name had been established.

He turned pro afterward.

Bookmyer Keeps No. 1 Rating

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gerry Bookmyer of Sycamore, Ohio, retained his No. 1 spot with the most victories among harness racing drivers the U.S. Trotting Association announced today. He has 63 winners through Monday, Del Indio of South Beloit, Ill., has won the most money $108,117.

and then won the first tournament he entered as a pro, the Cajun Classic. Lately, however, Fleckman has had physical problems. He is suffering with bursitis in his wrists and also had troubles with an ingrown toenail.

Two buddies from northern California, Ron Cerrudo and Jim Wiechers, both 23, also appear to have bright futures. As amateurs, they spent several summers traveling by car together to major amateur tournaments. And when one didn't win, the other usually did. Wiechers turned pro in 1966 and Cerrudo became a pro after losing in the 1967 British Amateur final to Bob Dickson.

Many observers regard Dickson, 25-year-old Oklahoman, as the most promising of the newcomers. Last year, he won both the U.S. and British Amateurs. He turned pro this past January and sought his Tournament card in April.

Bobby Cole, 19-year-old South African, and Jim Grant, 25, from Hartford, Conn., are both promising. Cole is a big hitter who has been a bit of a disappointment so far this year. He entered only one tournament last year, the Hartford Open, and tied for 10th.

Grant is also experiencing the rigors and mortifications of a young pro. But he did have a respectable start last year, his first as a pro, by finishing in a tie for third in the Cajun.

The brothers Lotz, Dick and John, have both been on the tour for several years without making a splash. Dick, 25, and John, 26, had great reputations while playing as amateurs in California. Recently, however, they showed signs of emerging from mediocrity. This year, John won the Hope of Tomorrow tournament and Dick tied for 15th in the Hope Classic.

Another pro, only 28, also appears to have a good future. He has even won some tournaments. His name is Jack Nicklaus.

'Ecstasy' and a Phillie Rookie

By AL CARTWRIGHT

CLEARWATER, Fla. — (NEA) — No interview with Larry Colton would be complete without mentioning Hedy Lamarr, because the Phillies rookie pitcher is the screen beauty's son-in-law.

The subject was suggested rather hesitantly, the highly publicized and controversial Miss Lamarr and her book, "Ecstasy and Me," one of the most lurid of them all, could be a touchy subject. A family

Eagles as an 'Asset'

NEW YORK — (NEA) — They should have warned us way back in Mr. Sharp's Reporting 1 class at Missouri that sports writing wasn't all hits, runs and errors, option passes and zig-zags.

It's also debentures and collateral, assets and liabilities, re-financing and liquidation, tight money and unsecured creditors, liens and writs of foreign attachment.

That's if you want to keep up with l'affaire Jerry Wolman and the Philadelphia Eagles.

It started early last fall when a roofing company tucked away in Virginia slapped a piddling $26,000 lien on the Wolman construction empire that four years ago listed assets of $250 million. And it approaches a denouement in the U.S.

District Court in Baltimore on April 22 when Joseph O. Kaiser, bankruptcy referee, is presented with a plan by ex-tycoon Wolman to pay off a list of creditors that had mounted to 300, 95 of them unsecured.

In between, there was the startling fact that a man (Wolman) could have a total cash value of $24.04, plus a $25 savings bond, while relating how he had just dropped a cool $5 1/2 million on a caved-in foundation in Chicago.

For sports lovers, there also has been the revelation that the one solid structure in Wolman's crumbling empire is the Philadelphia Eagles. All his plans for resuming life in a chauffeur-driven limousine have revolved around refinancing schemes using the Eagles as the chief crutch. He even used them as a lure for an oil-rich sheik from Kuwait. Unfortunately, the sheik saw the Eagles play.

To understand the nuances of this, we have even been driven to a study of Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act and the National Football League Constitution and By-Laws. Not that the two are interrelated.

But under Chapter 11, Wolman pleaded and got an extension of time to devise a plan for satisfying his creditors before they force him into bankruptcy. And under Section 3.7, Article III of the NFL By-Laws, the institution of bankruptcy proceedings would automatically terminate Wolman's ownership of the Eagles.

Actually, if Wolman doesn't satisfy the bankruptcy referee on April 22 (and later his creditors, who must vote on his re-financing plans), the Eagles will pass over to the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., which floated most of the loans for Wolman's purchase of the club.

Then the bank will tell the National Football League to go out and find a buyer for the club. The Eagles would then be sold for $15 million, which would pay off all the debts outstanding against the team and leave a little left over for Wolman's other creditors.

Wolman did buttonhole the other NFL owners with one scheme to lump the Eagles with three of his other properties — the Spectrum (an indoor arena that had the roof blown off), the Yellow Cab Companies of Camden and Philadelphia and Connie Mack Stadium — into one holding company in which he would sell public stock. Before they could vote on it, he withdrew the plan.

They have no idea what plan he'll place before the bankruptcy referee on April 22, but you can be sure the Eagles will be the main foundation.

"If you took the Eagles out," said one owner, respected in financial circles, "there'd be nothing. Actually, he hasn't got a prayer. We knew two years ago he was in deep financial trouble."

So why, you ask, didn't the NFL do something about getting rid of Wolman as an owner before he dragged his team through the courts in financial litigation and indirectly smeared the image of pro football as a house that always keeps its own members clean? Late in the '67 season, visiting teams didn't get their cut of the gate receipts. There were other questionable practices as the Eagles operated on short cash.

In sub-paragraph 8.14 (B) of Article VIII, there is a procedure under which the NFL commissioner or a member of the executive committee can prefer charges "of conduct detrimental to the league or to professional football" and force an owner to sell his franchise.

"The owners," said an NFL representative, "are a bunch of nice guys. They didn't want to be the last guy who nailed the lid on the coffin."

Nail the lid on the coffin? We do recall Mr. Sharp cautioning us about phrases like that back in Reporting 1.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

matter, and all that.

"Oh, I don't mind," responded Colton, a 14-game winner at San Diego last year. "All the sports writers bring it up, and they've been nice to me. I am strictly in her corner. I haven't read the book and I don't intend to, because it is a complete pack of lies. My mother-in-law is suing the publisher for $10 million, you know."

"She was interviewed by tape recorder for material for the book, and the contract specified who was to be her ghost writer. It also specified who was not to be the writer, but the very man she didn't want wrote the book, and it is complete misinformation."

"We get a long perfectly. Whenever we're in Los Angeles, we stay at her place. I think she'd like to see more of Denise, who goes wherever I go, but that's a natural mother-in-law complaint, isn't it?"

Colton is mentioned several times in "Ecstasy," purchased purely for research, you understand, as Hedy Lamarr frequently establishes her devotion to "Deedee," her only daughter. She recently married a big-league baseball pitcher, Larry Colton," in the quote attributed to Miss Lamarr in the book published a year and a half ago. She may have been right, at that.

Mr. and Mrs. Colton first met on a blind date when they were students at the University of California. He has a degree in public relations, by the way. They were married during Larry's first pro season at Eugene, Ore., and he won seven of his next eight starts, including six in a row.

It looks as if their next anniversary waltz will be danced in Philadelphia.

Plan Ahead

Monetary wizards point out the accelerating use of credit cards and the rising computerization of banking transactions, credit data and the like and predict that just around the corner is a monetary system that will be checkless and, eventually, cashless.

Without realizing it, we've been preparing for the future right along. Ever since banks stopped honoring drafts, we regularly find ourselves checkless—usually in a supermarket line or before an indignant restaurant cashier. And for years, toward the last of each month, we have been pioneering in the technique of operating entirely without cash. - Dallas (Tex.) Times Herald

How To Tell An Adult

We've decided that in the great debate on what defines an adult and what defines a child, modern America provides two answers.

An adult is a person who remembers when first class mail cost three cents. And an adult is a person who remembers when coffee cost a nickel a cup.

Simple enough, particularly since young America does not seem particularly interested in mulling anything and its taste in beverages runs somewhat stronger than coffee. - Greenville (Miss.) Delta Democrat - Times

What's The Hurry?

U.S. Attorney Vernol Jansen, Jr., has the duty of enforcing the laws down in his Mobile district, and looks like he could have waited awhile before clamping down on that patent medicine good for (among other things) "simple colds . . . razor nicks . . . athlete's foot . . . hiccoughs . . . disintary (sic) . . . sore mouth dog . . . (and) getting up too much at night."

Sure, that's a lot of things for one remedy to cure, but — shoot! — why, if it only worked for a couple of those . . . ! - Anniston (Ala.) Star

Splendor In The Grass

A nudist camp director has said in Lawrence, Kan., that the time is fast approaching when people will do yard work in the nude and think nothing of it. Don't they have chiggers in Kansas? - Atlanta (Ga.) Journal

Kaiser's Estate Worth Millions

HONOLULU (AP) — The Honolulu estate of the late industrialist Henry J. Kaiser is for sale for $2.5 million.

The property includes six houses, all occupied now, and covers 308,950 square feet of land. The main house is marble-lined.

Extras include sunken bathtubs, built-in television, private garden, radio-controlled gates, telephones located throughout the grounds, intercom system, stereo music and Olympic-size swimming pool.

Christmas Lights Burn

CENTRAL POINT, Ore. (AP) — Christmas tree lights are blinking brightly in a cherry tree at the home of Tom Thompson who says they are there to assure a good crop this season. Last spring frost nipped the blossoms and there were no cherries. He says the lights raise the temperature a degree or two and keep the frost away.

Arkansas GI Generous

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Burlan Atkins of the St. Louis suburb of Affton has been writing letters and sending gift packages to a lonely Marine in Vietnam.

The Marine responded with a $500 check and a letter urging Mrs. Atkins, her daughter and a friend to have a night on the town on him.

Mrs. Atkins said she has never met Cpl. Jon MacPampin, 21, of Arkansas, but her son, Rocky, served with him at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Rocky Atkins is now en route to Vietnam, too.

MacPampin hometown not available.

The Price Was Thirty Pieces of Silver to Betray Jesus Christ

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

"Thirty pieces of silver" was the price. Betraying Jesus Christ was the crime. Judas Iscariot was the culprit. (Mark 14:10-11) Biblical references don't tell us which coins were used, only that it was "large money." That could refer to tetradrachms, coins about the size of our half dollars, which served many years as the international standard of trade. Those minted in several countries circulated freely in the Holy Land and elsewhere.

Here we have pictured a silvered tetradrachm minted in Tyre, Phoenicia, in 106-106 B.C. Pictured on the front is the sun god, Melkarth, who was the presiding deity of Tyre. The reverse side shows an eagle standing on a ship's gunwale reminding us that Melkarth was considered the seaman's protection. Looking at this coin, worth about 64 cents, we feel repulsion mixed with fascination. Could this actually be one of the coins given to Judas? Historical records show that Tyre tetradrachms were most certainly among the 30 pieces. Why this particular tetradrachm?

Talmudic law determined that each person should pay one-half shekel weight in silver for temple tribute as an offering unto the Lord. (Exodus 30:15) Though Tyre tetradrachms circulated, the Tyre coin contained a full shekel weight of silver and was readily accepted by temple authorities.

The betrayal contract is sufficient reason for history to record these infamous coins. But more is to come. Let's follow their trail.

When Judas flung the coins before the high priests and went out and hanged himself, he also flung a problem. Blood money could not be used for temple tribute, so the priests decided to use the money to purchase a potter's field to be used as a burial place for the poor. Thus, Jeremy's prophecy was fulfilled. (Matt. 27:7-10)

Tetradrachms find their way into the story one more time. They were probably the "large money" used to bribe the Roman soldiers who were left to guard Christ's tomb. Of course, the soldiers were instructed to say that the body had been stolen, for they couldn't afford to let resurrection stories get started.

If you turn a "Melkarth coin" over in your hand, history comes alive. You are linked at once with a city visited by Christ. A city considered, as the coin's inscription reads, "holy and inviolable." A city from whence came tetradrachms, coins used to sell Christ to death on a criminal's cross.

Alas, man has his price—history's most nefarious crime for less than $20!

During the past twenty years since the Arkansas Association for the Crippled was organized as the Arkansas Easter Seal Society, over 40,000 crippled children have received therapy and schooling at an Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center. The first Center was located in Jacksonville and since July 1966 the new Center at 2801 Lee Avenue in Little Rock has provided the finest care available for physically handicapped youngsters from 1 to 21 years of age.

Troops Called to Disorders Well Trained

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 14,000 troops called into the nation's capital to quell racial violence operated according to well-laid plans their commander says have been made for every city with a potential for racial civil disorders strife.

Gen. Ralph E. Haines Jr., the Army's vice chief of staff who commands the troops in Washington, said the national contingency plans are known collectively as "Garden Plot." Washington's plan is called "Operation Cabin Guard."

The troops are still in this city although there hasn't been serious trouble since Saturday night, the third night of violence following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis, Tenn.

Haines took newsmen on a tour Thursday of three bivouac areas for the troops. Haines said that as early as last August, Army officers had walked Washington's streets, surveying the scene and getting acquainted with local officials and police officers they would have to work with in any riot emergency.

have been in the new Center during the past two years. She has been in the Center twice, once last year and again until March of this year. Jettie, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Willis, has osteomyelitis and received medical treatment, physical therapy and attended school during her stays. Easter Seal Center staff members say that Jettie Mae is looking ahead to the time when her disease will allow her to get a job in industry near her hometown. Assistance given to her during her recent periods of difficulty, by Easter Seals will help her reach her goal of a useful, independent life.

For crippled children who need expensive nursing care, therapy and schooling, the Easter Seal Center offers their only hope outside of private hospitals and special home tutors. The Center can house a total of forty youngsters at one time and residency records show few vacancies.

Hope provide the vital and necessary services of the Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center, while you provide funds for transportation, wheelchairs, medical services and other help for Hemphstead county crippled children and adults, directly through County Chairman Mrs. R. L. Broach. Your gifts to Easter Seals help operate the Center with half of your contribution and the other half is available at the county level.

As the 1968 Easter Seal Campaign slogan says, "People have got to help people." And we can add — "help themselves to live a better, happier and more productive life."

Ice Cream to White House

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Earl Swensen, ice cream shop proprietor, says he is shipping six gallons of butterscotch ice cream by air to the White House as ordered.

Butterscotch is the flavor of the ice cream cone Lynda Bird Robb was eating when she and her Marine captain husband, Charles, visited San Francisco last month. A conductor ejected the couple from a cable car, apparently afraid the ice cream would drip.

Swensen wrote Lynda Bird, thanking her for her patronage and the six gallon order followed.

Easter Scene Around the World Today

This year's world Easter scene, which comes to its joyous climax Sunday in memory of Christ's resurrection, is dominated by traditional celebrations but flecked with unusual touches.

Thousands of pilgrims streamed into Rome for the Roman Catholic Easter vigil service tonight in St. Paul's Basilica, with a Mass concelebrated by Pope Paul VI and two Benedictine abbots. Thousands of Romans streamed out of the city, bound for the mountains and the shore over the long weekend.

On Good Friday the pontiff bore a cross through the heart of what once was pagan Rome. The 70-year-old Pope declared in a sermon that all men were "co-responsible" for the death of Christ, because He died to save all men from their sins.

The ancient holy city of Jerusalem was different this year: It was united under Israeli rule, and Christian Easter coincided with Jewish Passover.

Hundreds of Israelis watched as Christian Arabs and pilgrims from many lands including the United States trod the Way of the Cross along the Via Dolorosa and filed into the Church of the Holy Sepulchre for the final stations. It is believed Christ was crucified on the spot where the church now stands and also entombed there.

At Colgate University, chaplain Dr. Donald Berry will conduct an interdenominational Easter service in the administration building for 500 students and faculty members who've been holding a sit-in there since Wednesday.

Cubby Not Likely to Retire to Farm Life After Film Successes

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm an old vegetable farmer, pill maker and casket salesman," said Albert R. Broccoli. "Some time I'd like to go back and rest on a farm for a while. My kids have been dying to see what a cow looks like."

But it isn't likely that Broccoli — called "Cubby" by everyone in the film industry — will retire to the rustic life soon.

His five James Bond films, which cost $22 million and have already grossed $150 million made him one of the most spec-

Murton Scoffs at 100,000 Book Report

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton said Thursday that a book he is writing on the state's prison system had very little to do with the unearthing of three human skeletons from unmarked graves at Cummins Prison Farm Jan. 29.

Murton said, in a letter to the Associated Press, that the "episode" of the graves "is dealt with in the context of the total picture of man's struggle against the establishment."

He said the book would be "scholarly and well done." "It is not an expose," Murton said. "The facts are stated, conclusions drawn and the rest left to the reader to evaluate for himself."

The New York Times had reported that Murton was writing a book about "murdered inmates" and that he had received a $100,000 advance.

Murton scoffed at the figure. "Just for the record, I did not get $100,000 advance for a book; I have not as yet received one penny; I doubt seriously if that figure represents the total profits eventually for myself, the co-author, agent, publishers and book stores," Murton said.

State Sen. Virgil Fletcher of Benton, who said he understood the book was "sensational," had asked the attorney general if publication of the book could be blocked.

Some members of the state legislature repeatedly rebuffed Murton after the unearthing of the graves focused international publicity on the state.

Returned After Some 30 Years B52 Bombers Hit Enemy in Mekong Delta

PROVO, Utah (AP) — An unidentified man handed a Street Department foreman a shovel Thursday and said it belonged to the city. Noting its brand new condition, the foreman asked why it hadn't been used. The man explained he had stolen a shovel from the city 30 years ago, and his conscience bothered him so much he finally bought the new one to return.

Thant Talks With Hanoi Diplomat

PARIS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant talked for an hour and 20 minutes today with North Vietnam's top representative in the West, presumably about the proposed meeting between representatives of Washington and Hanoi.

A communique from Thant's staff said his talk with North Vietnamese diplomat Mai Van Bo was "conducted in a cordial atmosphere."

The secretary-general said Thursday in Luxembourg, he believed Washington-Hanoi talks "could start within a matter of two or three days" but gave no indication on what he based his prediction. Earlier in the day he said the talks might start next week.

Figured His Life Was Saved

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A package of cheese and sausage arrived at police headquarters from a man who had been arrested for drunken driving. "The man figured we saved his life by arresting him," Col. Joe Klepper said.

But many B52 raids are not followed up by allied ground sweeps. The B52s have concentrated on enemy strongholds in the central highlands and the northern border area.

The U.S. Command said Friday's raid was against troop concentrations, weapons positions and a storage area, but did not say how many B52s were in the mission or what tonnage of explosives they dropped. It is generally known that a B52 mission includes from 3 to 12 of the bombers, each capable of carrying 50,000 pounds of bombs.

Following up the raid, the South Vietnamese troops said they fought with a Viet Cong force of unknown size, killing 12, taking five prisoners and destroying an enemy radio station. Government losses were reported as one killed, four wounded.

In air raids against North Vietnam, U.S. headquarters said the new F111A swing-wing fighter-bombers resumed combat missions after being grounded since March 30.

The suspension of F111A combat missions came after two of the $6 million aircraft were lost in their first week of combat flying. North Vietnam claimed shooting down both of the lost F111As but U.S. sources have said the second and probably the first had mechanical trouble.

U.S. military spokesmen said the F111As flew two missions Friday, attacking truck parks and other targets 25 miles northwest of Dong Hoi and about 65 miles north of the demilitarized zone. Pilots reported one secondary explosion, indicating fuel or ammunition had been hit.

"These are exciting times," he remarked. "There really is no limit to how well a picture can do today—if it appeals to a wide family audience."

Cubby, a genial man with the affable grace and proportions of a brown bear, got into the film business inadvertently. "As a boy I worked in Long Island on the truck gardening farm of an uncle of mine who introduced Broccoli seed to this country," he said. "Later I jerked sodas and mixed cough syrups in a drugstore, and then I got a job selling funeral caskets."

"It was pretty much like dealing in furniture, but still I found it a bit depressing, so I took a vacation trip to Hollywood."

There his cousin, Pat Di Cicco, the agent, introduced him to Howard Hughes and director Howard Hawks, and soon Broccoli found himself as "35th assistant director under Hawks, in charge of getting coffee for everyone on the set."

After serving 4½ years in the U.S. Navy during the World War II, Cubby became an agent for Lana Turner and several top stars. Then in 1951 he became a producer in London, where he has made all but one of his 40 films.

"We became what Hollywood calls runaway producers, and helped start the whole trend of producing pictures abroad," he remarked.

"But I never felt like a runaway. Those were rough years in our business, and I felt I could never get anything important in Hollywood—certainly not as a producer."

The biggest problem of a producer, said Cubby, "are the elements and artistic temperament—in that order."

B52 Bombers Hit Enemy in Mekong Delta

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — American B52 bombers pounded enemy positions up and down South Vietnam in five missions today after killing 200 Viet Cong soldiers in a rare strike in the Mekong Delta, the U.S. Command said.

The B52s, which fly too high to be seen or heard from the ground, dropped tons of explosives Friday on enemy troop concentrations, weapons positions and a storage area in Vinh Binh Province, 74 miles southwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said.

South Vietnamese troops reported finding 200 Viet Cong bodies when they swept through the area four hours after the eight-engine Stratofortresses struck.

If their count is correct, it is the largest number of enemy troops ever reported killed in a single B52 mission in the nearly three years the giant bombers have been supporting allied forces in South Vietnam.

So far in the war, the Stratofortresses have flown perhaps only a dozen or so missions in the delta.

The other raids today were against enemy buildup areas west of Kontum City in the central highlands near the Cambodian border, near Khe Sanh and southwest of Hue.

The toll from the raid over Vinh Binh Province, 74 miles southwest of Saigon, was the biggest ever reported for a single mission of the eight-engine Stratofortresses in their nearly three years' service in Vietnam.

But many B52 raids are not followed up by allied ground sweeps. The B52s have concentrated on enemy strongholds in the central highlands and the northern border area.

Education Groups to Merger

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The members of the Arkansas Education Association have approved a merger with the all-Negro Arkansas Teachers Association by about a 5-to-1 margin.

The tabulation of the April 5 balloting, which was announced Thursday, showed 11,400 for the merger and 2,124 against.

The merger, which will become official in June, 1969, had previously been approved by the ATA.

Maurice A. Dunn of Hot Springs was elected vice president-elect by the AEA and will become president May 1, 1969. Wiley Elliott of Camden was president of the AEA last year and will assume office May 1.
